

information delivery

FWP prefers to exchange information, documents, drawings etc. electronically (unless where specifically requested) our clients therefore benefit from the time and cost savings.

Systems and hardware are updated with technological advances where we see advantages being transferred to our clients. We use the most communicative systems we can to reduce interaction time between consultants and clients, to improve efficiency in our service and to reduce project costs and impact on the environment.

