At FWP we believe the key to a successful project is a structured series of meetings and workshops led by the partner in charge and the project leader. They will be scheduled to enable the client to access and influence the design and construction intent. The partner in charge directs the team and liaises with the client throughout the course of the project. Project teams are carefully selected for the specific skills they will bring.

The project leader is a senior member of staff, who works directly with the client body and is responsible for the administration of the project on a day to day basis, the control of budget and timescales is paramount.

The design architect leads the production team through design and liaises with consultants maintaining adherence to the design objectives through all stages. A technical coordinator is allocated to each project, and is responsible for coordinating the technical and production information. Progress is monitored through regular meetings with key stage reviews involving consultants, designers and project managers.

Our cost management professionals adopt a policy of proactive cost advice as opposed to reactive cost reporting. We offer value management workshops to ensure that a project brief and forecast is achieved throughout all stages.
